THE RAMP IS VISIBLE IN THE CHART — WE SCALED SENDING ONLY AS DELIVERABILITY PROVED OUT

THE CHALLENGE

- Selling Spotlight — a brand visibility and online ranking audit platform — into aviation, hotels and luxury resorts
- Marketing, comms and brand leaders at these companies own some of the most pitched inboxes in the world
- A new category: buyers were not searching for this, so demand had to be created inside the inbox
- Another “quick call?” email was never going to land with teams who receive PR pitches every day

THE OFFER: THE REVERSE LEAD MAGNET METHOD

- Every other agency asks for a meeting first. We gave something away first.
- Every reply triggered our agent to write and deliver a real, publish-ready article about that specific brand — free, with no call required
- The prospect held a finished, tangible asset before they ever spoke to a salesperson
- The free article doubled as a live demonstration of exactly what the platform produces
- Reciprocity did the selling — we were the only sender in the inbox who had already given value

WHY THE MEETINGS WERE DIFFERENT

- Prospects arrived pre-qualified — they had already engaged with the deliverable, not just a calendar link
- Calls opened at “how do we scale this” instead of “so what do you actually do?”
- No-shows collapsed: people turn up for the company that already gave them something
- Most agencies hand over a booked meeting. We handed over the work that moves the needle, then the meeting.

HOW WE SCALED IT

- Ramped from roughly 2,000 to 7,000+ sends per day as deliverability held
- Segmented by vertical — aviation, hotels and luxury resorts each ran their own angle and article format
- Replies answered within 5 minutes, agent-drafted and human-approved before sending
- Multi-touch follow-up (up to 8 touchpoints) plus continuous re-engagement of earlier non-responders

159 buying conversations with aviation, hotel and luxury resort brands — from a standing start, inside one quarter.

The cost of the entire engagement was returned many times over, and the pipeline kept compounding after the first month.

The asset that made it work — a free article on every reply — is now a permanent part of how they sell.
